

Vote Ansh for London RC

Proud to be nominated by:

Imperial College, UCL, KCL, Queen Mary's, Goldsmiths, Westminster, Brunel, Royal Holloway, St George's

I'm Ansh Bhatnagar and I'm a third year physics student who is the current President of Imperial College London Labour Society, and Youth Officer for Scientists for Labour. I'm running to be the next London Regional Coordinator.

I'm running because I am tired of being part of a national organisation that does nothing for club members, does nothing for club chairs like me, and does all it can to shut us out. I joined the Labour Party in 2016 as the party started to offer a true socialist alternative to Tory austerity and started speaking to young working class people like me. However, throughout my time on committee, I have felt that the national Labour Students have contributed nothing to the experience of us or our members. Labour Students has the chance to become a radical force for change in the country, and it will become that when clubs can work together facilitated by a democratic and engaging Labour Students.

If elected, I commit to:

- Working with the current LRC to create a democratically elected LLS steering committee before I take office.
- Organise regular London-wide political events (at least once a term), socials (at the start of each term) and the first ever LLS Conference day (spring term 2020).
- Ensuring that we also have more accessible and alcohol-free socials.
- Running London-wide campaigns and providing support to club committees, as well as strengthening links with London Young Labour and CLPs to support MPs, councillors, PPCs, and Mayor Sadiq Khan in 2020 .
- Lobby for more funding for clubs and delegate travel from the >£81k pot freed up by the party, in order to make national events more accessible.
- Voting for full OMOV where all student-rate Labour members are automatically afforded voting rights without any hurdles, ensuring clubs aren't disaffiliated.
- Produce regular progress reports so that I can be held accountable by our members and our club committees.

I hope I have convinced you to vote Ansh for a member-led, revitalised and accessible London Labour Students. I cannot wait to work with you all!
