

1. Liberation

Make the West Midlands of a beacon of inclusivity, diversity and liberation; an example to all other regions. As a Jewish student with a disability, liberation isn't just a slogan for me, it's part of my politics.

2. Campaigning

As a region full of marginals, the West Midlands holds the key to a Labour government and Labour Students in the region should be front and centre, campaigning to turn our region red. Building on the work I've done in Nuneaton, I will hold monthly accessible campaign days for our clubs, get us out on the doorstep.

3. Democracy

I will make our student movement more democratic and accountable, working to achieve a system that includes all our universities and FE institutions, to engage with as many students as possible.

4. Outward-looking

Working with trade unions and our national party, I will ensure that the West Midlands is at the heart of our campaigns, fighting for a Living Wage in all universities and Students' Unions in the West Midlands. We should be leading campaigns to improve mental health services, capping Vice Chancellors' pay and supporting a People's Vote.
